Murdoch

The Sacred and Profane Love Machine is one of four Murdoch novels that take male adultery as a major theme. Harriet, Emily, and Blaise are all given narrative focus, and are all treated somewhat sympathetically by the author. However, Blaise's egotism and moral failure are clear throughout.

Sacred and Profane.

The concepts of sacred and profane are central to Durkheim's theory of religion. Durkheim says that the sacred is ideal and transcends everyday existence, it is extra-ordinary, potentially dangerous, awe-inspiring, fear inducing.

Love is a title given to the painting only in the 18th century when a moralistic tone was applied to the work which Titian certainly never intended. For Titian, Venus or Sacred Love, the figure on the right holding the lamp of divine love, would have represented heavenly love or eternal happiness, while the bride or Profane Love on the left represented
